Wrapper's Delight

Mummy's the word in Santa Ana, California, where the Bowers Museum (2002 North Main Street) is hosting Mummies: Death and the Afterlife in Ancient Egypt ... Treasures From the British Museum. Among the 140 objects—the largest collection ever to leave the British Museum—you'll find 14 mummies and/or coffins, as well as sarcophagi, amulets and various other funerary objects, and you'll learn a bit about the process of mummification—in preparation for your next Halloween costume. Info: 714-567-3600 or www.bowers.org.

Peepin' and A-Whalin'

This month, Nantucket, Massachusetts, offers more than sand and surf to pass the time. The newly renovated Whaling Museum (13 Broad Street, www.nha.org) reopens June 4 with 20,000 square feet of additional exhibition space containing scrimshaw, an observation deck, a 30-foot whaling boat and the not-to-be-missed skeleton of a 46-foot sperm whale. If the artist in you needs a fix, swing by Nantucket's oldest inn, Century House (10 Cliff Road, 508-228-0530, www.centuryhouse.com), for New England Artist's Week (June 9–14), where you can get a few pointers from local artists, painters and watercolorists.

Taking the Kura

THE KURA DOOR HOLISTIC JAPANESE SPA

Location As exquisitely peaceful as a Zen monastery, the Kura Door is in the hip Avenues district, just east of downtown Salt Lake City and 15 minutes from the airport.

Indulgence After a bath of aromatic salts, the Kura massage will induce physical satori. The bath and massage ($110) take nearly three hours, but the effect lasts for weeks.

Essentials The Kura Door Holistic Japanese Spa, 1136 East Third Avenue, Salt Lake City; 801-364-2400; www.thekuradoor.com.
