

The Best New Supermarket Snacks of 2015 (So Far)

by Nicole Perry 2/02/15 ↻ 285 Shares 🖨 Print

Source: Anna Monette Roberts

Taking a stroll down the snack aisles at your supermarket can be overwhelming to say the least; thousands of products are vying for your attention, but only a select sliver of those are worth your time. We may only be one month in to the New Year, but 2015 has already been prolific with new product releases. We've tasted our way through these new supermarket snacks to tease out the must try from the merely "meh," so you can avoid buyer's remorse.

Source: Anna Monette Roberts

Pretzel Crisps Sriracha and Lime

It's damn near impossible not to demolish a bag of Pretzel Crisps Sriracha and Lime ($3). The spicy-zesty powder that flavors the chips is so good, we sort of wish we had a jar of it to sprinkle on food.

Source: Anna Monette Roberts

Pretzel Crisps Gluten Free Original Minis

It's nearly impossible to believe, but we think Pretzel Crisps Gluten Free Original Minis ($3) may be better than traditional wheat. These tiny crisps have a phenomenally crispy texture and perfect amount of salt.