

Kitchen Products That Are Helping to Find a Cure

Pink Kitchenware and Cooking Equipment for Breast Cancer Awareness Month

By Jessica Harlan, About.com

Jessica Harlan

Cooking Equipment Guide

▪ Sign up for my Newsletter

▪ My Blog ▪ My Forum

October is the month to "think pink" in honor of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and the kitchenware and cooking equipment industry is particularly supportive of this cause. You can support breast cancer research by choosing from a wide range of kitchenware that's pink to help build awareness of this debilitating disease. From big kitchenware brand names to mom-and-pop companies, here's an assortment of "pink for the cause" kitchen products and retail programs in honor of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

• Better Homes and Gardens Cookbooks "Celebrating the Promise" Edition

The 14th edition of the venerable Better Homes & Gardens cookbook includes a 64-page bonus chapter that includes healthy recipes and lifestyle suggestions to help reduce the risk of breast cancer, along with recipes and thoughts from celebrity chefs whose lives have been touched by the disease, including Sara Moulton, Lidia Bastianich and Paula Deen. Fifty-two percent of the purchase price supports the Susan G. Komen for a Cure Foundation.

Pricegrabber

Compare Prices ▶

• Design Your Own Aprons

Design your own adult or child apron on Spreadshirt's website with images and text of your choosing. Now through October 6, the company will donate 10 percent of the sale of each women's product to FORCE (Facing Our Risk of Cancer Empowered).

Buy Direct

Spreadshirt

• Pink Dawn Dishwashing Liquid

Dawn Dishwashing Liquid is going pink in October in honor of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, as is Bounty Paper Towels. Parent company Procter & Gamble has made a $250,000 donation to the National Breast Cancer Foundation to help provide free mammograms to women who cannot otherwise afford them. Look for these products in your local grocery store.

Manufacturer's Site

Procter & Gamble