

Style

Eyecatchers

Control makeup slide

If your makeup feels as if it's sliding off your face during our sky-high temperatures and brutal humidity, then you might consider a little protection in the form of Dermelect Cosmeceuticals Pore Revolution and T-Zone mattifier. A bit of this powdery cream works instantly to control shine and reduce the look of large pores, leaving a matte finish. Formulated to work on the T-zone area of your face, the mattifier contains salicylic acid. It's available through www.dermelect.com for $28. SABINE MORROW

Four-star sunscreen

Those who thought that effective sun protection was available only in Europe, where sunscreens are rated on a four-star system, now can get products that satisfy both European and American requirements. AHAVA's Mineral Suncare line of moisturizing sunscreens with SPF protection ranging from 15 to 50 is gentle enough for children and was rated four stars. Specially formulated with UVA/UVB sunscreens, a proprietary mineral complex, essential vitamins and rich moisturizers, AHAVA promises a lasting defense against premature aging. Available at www.ahava.com for $25. SABINE MORROW

Fragrance for fall

Next month, Jo Malone is launching its latest fragrance with a nod to autumn. English Pear & Freesia cologne will usher in a welcome end to a broiling summer with crisp top notes of King William pear. This is a soft, subtle fragrance, not a jam-like, cloying scent. Other notes include white freesia, which add a hint of green, and patchouli offers up a welcome earthy spiciness. Prices start at $55. Available at www.jomalone.com and select Nordstrom, Neiman Marcus and Bloomingdale's. SABINE MORROW