

BirminghamMommy

The online community for Birmingham Moms....

Showing posts for query smashies. Show all posts

MONDAY, AUGUST 25, 2008

Product Review: Smashies

With the school year starting in just another week or so, some of us here at BirminghamMommy have been stressing out over what to put in our lunch boxes that meet all of the specified requirements. It needs to be healthy and easy to eat, shouldn't require refrigeration or heating, and the list goes on. Here is our solution: Smashies! Organic goodness on the go.

Smashies is a line of great tasting organic fruit sauces with no added sugar. It's USDA Organic, kosher, vegetarian, and gluten free.

Seriously, it's about as healthy as it gets. The resealable & eco-friendly, squeeze pouch is sure to be a hit with even the most finicky eaters. Think Capri Sun pouch filled with yummy applesauce.

While they haven't hit the stores yet, BirminghamMommy was able to get a sneak peek (and taste) of this new innovative snack. My almost three year old... LOVED. IT. The only draw back I could find, was a trigger happy toddler that took a few squirts to the shirt before getting the hang of holding the packet.

The good news is you don't have to wait until October, you can try some now by visiting, Smashies.com You pay the shipping and handling, and get the Smashies free. So get to ordering, you know you want your child to be a trend setter.

POSTED BY I'M A MOM!..? AT 12:29 PM 0 COMMENTS

LABELS: PRODUCT REVIEWS