

Metro

THE BOSTON GLOBE SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6, 2008 | BOSTON.COM/LOCAL

Names

MARK SHANAHAN & PAYSHA RHONE

ERIK JACOBS FOR THE BOSTON GLOBE

Eastern Standard bartenders took center stage this week while mixing drinks at the 75th anniversary celebration of the repeal of Prohibition.

Remembering the Roaring Twenties

In keeping with the current Depression-era vibe, Eastern Standard owner Garrett Harker hosted a Prohibition party this week, a "Roaring Twenties" rave marking the 75th anniversary of the day drinking resumed. (The six-course menu, including Cockscomb — a.k.a. rooster crown — was paired with cleverly named cocktails such as the Hanky Panky and the Charles Lindbergh.) A sellout, the swinging shindig attracted Longwood Events owner Jim Apteker and wife Alina, SalonCapri's Nick and Amy Penna, the BSO's Nina Jung, author-about-town Chris Kenneally, and producer Joan Quinn Eastman.