I DO

This past September my sister got married and I was in charge of rounding up the cute yet not so bride-y, bridal shower gifts. She wanted to have a wedding but when it came time for all of the traditional activities that go hand in hand with being a bride, she was so not into it!

Fast forward to me, covering the fashion market for future fashion stories, when I come across a great company called spreadshirt.com. It's a site where you can design your own personalized tops, bags, shoes etc. and they even have the option to sell your own creations on line. Perfect timing! I was able to design a cool tropical tote for my sis for her Hawaiian honeymoon with the wedding date discretely on the back. The best part? The totes are eco friendly and super cute (once you design your own, that is).

So whether you need a cute bag for spring or just feel the itch to start designing your own products, this site is a must see. Check it out and get your creative juices flowing! I'd love to see some of your creations!
