Nanette Lepore's new shop, a necklace with a mission, plus special offers for Lucky readers. By Erica Corsano

the best places

vintage stores

* Boutique Fabulous

1309 Cambridge St., Cambridge, 617-864-0656. Amazing home items, jewelry, and accessories from the '20s to the present fill this eclectic Inman Square shop. We found rustic wooden baskets ($45), a blue beaded Moroccan chandelier ($415), and a wide array of burlesque '20s table lamps ($30 to $60).

* Room 125

125 Charles St., 617-523-4450. This small storefront is definitely a hit-or-miss kind of place, but when you hit, you score big: vintage pieces from designers like Pucci, Halston, and Diane von Furstenberg, priced from $65 to $350. Check back regularly for special shipments or sign up for alerts at room125.com.

* The Great Eastern

Trading Company

49 River St., Cambridge, 617-354-5279.

Stop here before Halloween for Vegas-showgirl, belly-dancer, and cowboy looks, or visit anytime for modish miniskirts, little black dresses from every era, a rich selection of oversize bohemian jewelry, and a wallet-friendly boot selection.

THE GREAT EASTERN TRADING COMPANY

* Oona's

1210 Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, 617-491-2654. Just outside Harvard Square, this tiny shop is packed with dresses from the '60s and '70s, leather jackets, and tons of covetable jewelry, bags, and accessories, including feathered hats, ladylike '50s fur shawls, and colorful plastic bangles from the '80s.

the lowdown...

* new store

Known for feminine, earthy designs with a retro twist, Nanette Lepore (119 Newbury St., nanettelepore.com)

finally brings its ethnic tunic tops and pretty '50s-ish A-line party dresses to Back Bay.

* shop for a cause

Boston designer and breast cancer survivor Adriana Jenkins has created a special yellow gold and rose quartz "Hope" necklace ($140) for Sterling Jones Design. Fifteen percent of the proceeds will benefit the Ellie Fund, a local breast cancer charity. Purchase at sterlingjonesdesign.com.
