JENNA DEWAN-TATUM

"Jenna's bob is cut at an angle, so the front is longer than the back and the ends are layered," says Nick Penna, celebrity stylist and owner of SalonCapri. "It's still long enough for her to pull it back into a low ponytail, but it's also easy to style into different looks just by switching up the part or curling it with different wands and techniques. Plus, Jenna has small features with a slightly angular face shape, so a layered bob that hits her shoulders softens her features and highlights her eyes."

CANDACE CAMERON BURE

"Candace's bob has a lot of layers throughout, with the longest part starting at the bottom of her chin," says Penna. "This look works for her because it takes out the extra weight from her heavy, thick hair. To recreate it, apply a smoothing cream, such as Kérastase's Crème De La Crème ($37; kerastase-usa.com), to damp locks before blow-drying, which is great for fighting frizz."
