

The List

Hang This: Boston T Map

Spruce up the pad with this artsy metallic paper (or wood-fiber board) poster of the MBTA's subway map that's so sleekly drawn it gives the impression that you're flying across town, or at least not stuck standing in a packed car between Park and Government Center.

You even get free shipping! Order yours at Etsy.com

Drink Beer: 2nd Annual Spring Microbrew Fest

2pm Sat; At Ball Square Fine Wines: 716 Broadway, at Willow; Ball Square; 617.623.9500

Drop by BSWF this weekend for three hours of imbibing where you'll sample over 40 microbrews from 10 sud smiths including favorites like Berkshire, People's Pint, The Great Divide's Hades Belgian Gold and Titan, and Port Brewing's Wipeout IPA, Midnight Black, and Ten Commandments, several of which'll be much easier to break post Microbrew Fest.

Get deets on all of the suds at BallSquareFineWines.com

ALLIED LISTING

Boost: Your Sports Knowledge

Did you know Brett Favre's middle name was Lorenzo? And that he has a steakhouse? Search with Yahoo!, and even though there are 39,900,000 hits for #4, you'll learn crucial information like that right on the front page, along with news, stats, fantasy info, and more.

Get one step closer to Brett's "exquisite wine list" right now

Wear These: Silver Shotgun Shell Cufflinks

Get dangerous in these elegantly violent sterling silver shotgun shell links that're hand casted (not plated) from a wax mold by a local artist/metal smith/SMFA grad who daylights as an exec at an alternative energy company, at which HR has labeled him "someone never to fire".

Each pair is made to order at Studio250.com

Go Eat: Taste of Iceland Festival

Thru Wed March 17; At Rustic Kitchen: 210 Stuart St, at Park Square; Theater District; 617.423.5700

Celebrate the best in food, music, and film from an island that's not actually made of ice at this weeklong festival that includes a nightly tasting menu from "one of Iceland's premier chefs" featuring salmon w/ basil purée and fruit salsa; salted cod served w/ asparagus, artichoke purée, and pickled pearl onion; and langoustine and cauliflower w/ quail egg and shellfish asparagus foam -- responsible for keeping Icelander's faces smooth, and their urine gross.

They're also screening Icelandic films for free at Kendall Square Cinema! Check out the entire festival schedule at IcelandNaturally.com.

Breathe This: Le Whif Inhalable Coffee

Available Thurs, at Cardullo's: 6 Brattle St, at Palmer; Harvard Square; 617.491.8888

Created by a Harvard prof as the "first step toward breathable food," these organic inhalable coffee particles debut tomorrow in the US and allow you to breathe in your morning java (taste and all) and absorb "an amount of caffeine equivalent to a very light espresso" without ever sipping an actual cup of joe... sooo, hooray?

They also sell inhalers of one-calorie chocolate too -- order yours at LeWhif.com

